

Kinspire's Column

Not only a friend, but something much more; A guide and a role model is what we will strive for.

Sphoorti Orphanage

Emily Chang

This quarter Kinspire began a partnership with a new orphanage called Sphoorti in Dundigal, a suburb of Hyderabad. Sphoorti was founded by Srivyal Vuyyuri 10 years ago, and now houses around 250 children with 3 of the children successfully guided into the workforce. They provide basic needs, education, and healthcare which is necessary for the kids to thrive.

Kinspire is excited to expand its efforts to this new orphanage! Sphoorti currently has a computer lab, and once internet access is set up, Kinspire will be able to commence Skype tutoring. Kinspire's focus for Sphoorti will be for the older children, in particular on professional preparation, computer skills alongside English. Kinspire also hopes to assist in connecting these capable students with nearby opportunities.

Jazz Hands

Sarang Joshi

Jazz Hands is a nonprofit organization based in Pune, India, that teaches kids English at government schools through drama. The organization has been in operation for the past few years, working with the local Pune Municipal Corporation (PMC) on summer and winter courses.

Kinspire is excited to announce the initial steps towards a partnership with Jazz Hands, specifically working with the Pune orphanage to help reinforce English curriculum from our Skype calls. We look forward to bringing a new dimension to the children's learning with Jazz Hands' innovative drama-based approach!
